Lecture of Hon. John Jay.

Hon. John Jay, of New York, isotured before the Washington Leouage Association last night, at the Smithsonian, upon the Stewer. "Thoughts on the Rebellion; its Morai Character and its Political Consequences." He traced the origin of the different States in the Union, from the Pligrim settlers of Massackwasts, the Dutch of New York, the cavaliers and the convicts of Virginia, to the mingled political exiles, French Huguenots, Irish, &c., of the country further South, showing that there was a mixture of patrician and plebelan blood in each section, not complimentary to pretensions of exclusiveness, and totally insufficient to suggest the cause of the rebellion. Slavery he recognized as the offending cause, referred to the anti-slavery views of all the Revolutionary patricis, and followed step by step through the long line of usurpations of the slave power, its exactions, its profanation and final discarding of democracy, and i's exposure of its hideous deformity and rotten freazon in the transactions of the past year, for which it has caused humanity to blush.

And he added here, "We shall blash still past year, for which it has caused humanity to blush.

And he added here. "We shall blush still more if it survive the present contest." He accepted the spirit of Mr. Seward's allusion to the pound of sish which the Shylock, slavery, had been permitted to take at the risk of destruction, if one drop of blood should be drawn. Not only a drop, but living streams of the heart's best blood had been shed by slavery, and its destruction should how be sealed. He closed with a beautiful apostrophe to the Constitution, so long perverted to answer the requirements of slavery, but now brought back to its original guardianship of justice and liberly. The lecture was greeted with frequent applause.

Slave-catching in the District of Colum

While both Houses of Congress are discussing measures for the abolition of slavery in the District of Columbia, the business of slavery in the District of Columbia, the business of slaverations, flourishes in our midst as usual, and persons are arrested, on the mere presumption of color, as being fugitives from labor. A case in point occurred the other night, at Justice Donn's office. On the night in question, about ten colock, a county officer applied to Justice John H. Johnson, Justice Donn not being in his office, for a commitment to jail of a negro woman arrested by Officer A. E. L. Keess, on suspicion of being a runaway slave. That Justice refused to make out a commitment. After a commitment was declined, the officer returned to the office of Justice Johnson, and inquired of the Justice whether color was not prima facie evidence of slavery. The Justice replied that he could not determine the question as to whether a person was bond or free on the presumption of color, as it was well known that there were free men of color as well as slaves. A gentleman (others also being present) who was eiting in Justice Johnson's office, the arring the piteous cries of the poor womani went into Justice Donn's office, for the purpose of seeing what was the pastice. Keese had the worfism in a little back room, and her ories were supposed to have been occasioned by the officer, placing handouffs upon her. The gentleman, upon attempting to enter the back room, was met by Keese, who asked him, in a very insulting manner, what business he had to come in and interfers with a policeman in the discharge of his duties, and refused to give him any satisfaction to his interrogatory of "What was the matter!" The gentleman, after receiving further abuse from Keese, left the office, into Justice Johnson's office, and

A little while after, the reporter of this paper came into Justice Johnson's office, and learning that something was going on in Justice Donn's office, went and knocked at the door, which was locked. An officer came to the door and unlocked it, and he entered the room. Upon attempting to enter the back room, he was met by Keese, who refused to room, he was met by Keese, who refused to room, in the same time and closing the door. The reporter asked him what sort of a came he had, whether it was a criminal case. The officer replied that it was nor imminal case, yet refused to give any satisfaction, promising upon the next day to give him the full particul are of the case, and to him alone. Our reporter, who know well what was going on, asked him what necessity there was for so much secrety, and requested to see the woman, when he met with a fat refusal. He can be compared to the office by Keese, but where to, our reporter could not ascertain.

Thus, under the very nose of Coogress, at midnight, are colored men and women arrested by constables and lodged in jail on the mere suspicion of being runnway slaves; that suspicion being based merely upon their color. The poor orgatures, once in jail, are kept there for monthe, and in some cases for years.

Thirty of these poor orgatures, who were confined in the black hole on suspicion of being refused for years are confined in the black hole on suspicion of being refused for years.

The years and he case, and the refused to see the work of the case, and the treatment of the case, and the refused to provide the provide

Thirty of these poor creatures, who were confined in the black hole on suspiction of being refugees from the tyranny and injusty of slavery, were released a few weeks since by order of the Secretary of State. Some of them had been confined in the loathsome place for over a year, and, could they have had an opportunity to prove their right to liberty, would have been able to do so. But that privilege was denied them.

Saveral gentlemen who were in Justice
Johnson's office at the time, represent the cries and implorations of the poor woman to have been most pitsous and beartrend ng, and the earnestness with which she asserted to her captor that she was a free woman would a once have convinced anybody but the brute who had her in ouslody, that her assertion was

The Barney Case.

The Barney Case.

This case, which was postponed, came up yesterday morning before Justice Johnson, at the fourth ward station-house.

Col. Blunt, counsel for the complainant, Mr. John W. De Krafft, estated that he was authorized to say that his client (De Krafft) declined an investigation of the matter at present, and preferred to bring the subject before the grand jury, which would be in session again on Monday next.

Col. Blunt also said that Judge Purcell (who is the principal subject of the libel) requested him to state that, so far as he (Judge Purcell) was concerned, he was ready to go into an investigation at any time and at any place.

At this moment, Judge Purcell spoke for himself, saying that he declined to prefer any charge before Justice Johnson, as the whole matter would be brought before the criminal court, there to undergo a full investigation and ventilation.

w. D. Davidge, coussel for Mr. Barney, re-gretted that the prosecuting witnesses had been induced to waive an examination, as his client was anxious to have a trial. The case was then dismissed by the Justice, only however to appear again on another stage under other circumstances, and perhaps in
